When I was about 12 years old, I had an enemy, a girl who liked to tell me about my weak points. Week by week her list became 1; I was very short, and I wasn't a good student, I talked too much, and so on. I tried to stand all of these as long as I could. Finally, I became very angry. I ran to my father with tears in my eyes. He listened to me 2, and then asked, "Are the things that she said true or not? Jane, have you ever 3 what you're really like? Now you have that girl's ideas. Go and make a list of everything she said and mark the points that are true. Pay no attention to the other things that she said." I did as he told me. To my great 4, I found that about half of the things were true. Some of them I couldn't change, like being very short, but a great number of them I could. I wanted to change the bad things, and for the first time I knew something about myself in a very clear way. I brought the list back to my father. He refused to take it. "That's just for you," he said, "You know better than 5 else the truths about yourself, but sometimes others' opinions are also important, so you have to learn how to 6, and not just close your ears in anger and feel hurt. When something that is said about you is true, you'll find that it will be of help to you. Our world is full of people who think that they know you. Don't shut your ears. Listen to all of them, 7 hear the truth and do what you think is the right thing to do." I have remembered my father's advice at many important moments. I have never had a better piece of advice in my whole life.

For several years, Americans have enjoyed teleshopping, watching TV and buying things by phone. New teleshopping is starting in Europe. In some European countries, people can turn on their TVs and shop for clothes, food, toys and many other things. Teleshopping is becoming p1 in Sweden. For example, the biggest Swedish company sells different kinds of things on TV in fifteen European countries, and in one year, it makes $10 million. In France there are two teleshopping channels, and the French spend about $20 million a year in buying things t2 those channels. In Germany, until last year teleshopping was only possible on one channel for one hour every day. Then the government allowed more teleshopping. Other channels can open for telebusiness, i3 the largest American company and a 24-hour teleshopping company. German businessmen are hoping these will help them sell more things. Some people like teleshopping b4 it allows them to do their shopping without going out. With all the traffic p5 in cities, going shopping is not an easy thing. But at the time, other Europeans don't like this new way of buying things. They call teleshopping "junk" on the air. Many Europeans u6 worry about the quality of the things for sale on TV. They think high quality is the most important thing, and they don't believe they can be sure about the quality of the things on TV. The need of high quality m7 that European teleshopping companies will have to be different from the American companies. They will have to be more careful about the quality of the things they sell.

They will also have to work harder to sell things.

Answer the questions

An old carpenter was ready to retire. He told his employer of his plans to leave the house building business and live a more relaxing life with his wife and children. He would miss the paycheck, but he needed to retire. They thought they could support themselves for the rest of their life.

The employer was sorry to see his good worker go and asked if he could build just one more house. The carpenter said yes, but in time it was easy to see that his heart was not in his work. He turned to bad workmanship and used poor building materials.

It was an unlucky way to end his working life. When the carpenter finished his work and the employer came to see the house, he handed the front door key to the carpenter. "This is your house," he said, "my gift to you."

What a shock! What a shame! If he had only known he was building his own house, he would have done it all so differently. Now he had to live in the home he had built none too well.

So it is with us. We build our lives in a distracted (不专注的) way, willing to put up less than the best. At important points we do not give the job our best effort. Then with a shock we look at the situation we have created and find that we are now living in the house we have built. If we had realized that, we would have done it differently.

It is the only life you will ever build. Even if you live it for only one day more, that day deserves to be lived with dignity (尊严).

The sentence on the wall reads, "Life is a do-it-yourself project." Who could say it more clearly? Your life today is the result of your attitudes and choices in the past. Your life tomorrow will be the result of your attitudes and choices you make today.

1. The old carpenter lived quite a rich life with his wife and children, didn't he?
2. Why did the old carpenter want to retire?
3. What did the old carpenter's employer ask him to do before he retired?
4. How did the carpenter do the job his employer asked him to do?
5. How did the carpenter feel when he realized that the last house he built was his home?
6. What does the sentence on the wall mean?
